Telecommunications, Media & Technology

A member of the firm's Real Estate Practice, May represents owners, developers, investors and lenders in all aspects of commercial real estate transactions. He has helped clients acquire, finance and lease various types of commercial properties on a national level, including office, industrial, retail, mixed-use and residential projects. May also has experience advising telecom companies on a variety of matters, including master site agreements, cell site acquisitions, leasing, amendments and risk assessment.

"We are very pleased to have Aaron become one of our partners," said John Mays, a managing partner of the firm. "His real estate experience, especially in high-value office and other commercial leasing transactions, is a great value and resource for our clients."

May is an active member of ULI Chicago and the Chicago Mortgage Attorneys Association. He is also a member of the American and Chicago Bar Associations. May earned his law degree from John Marshall Law School and his bachelor's degree from the University of Illinois at Chicago.

For more than 75 years, Gould & Ratner LLP has provided comprehensive legal counsel and business advice to Fortune 500 corporations, closely held businesses, financial institutions and entrepreneurs, as well as families and their businesses in real estate, litigation, corporate, tax, estate and succession planning, human resources and employment, construction, environmental, intellectual property and related specialty fields.
