Rich Reizen, Chair of Gould & Ratner's Construction Practice, was featured in an Bisnow article "Blood, Sweat And Plumbing: Remaking The Old Chicago Post Office" where his thoughts were revisited from a webinar he moderated back in late June about the hard work that went into transforming the Old Chicago Post Office into what it is today.

"People saw the Post Office as Chicago's white elephant," Gould & Ratner partner Richard Reizen said on a Bisnow webinar about the Post Office. "It was the unsolvable problem."
