David Michael Elected to The People's Music School Board of Directors

David Michael

Gould & Ratner is pleased to announce that Managing Partner David Michael has been elected to the Board of Directors of The People's Music School.

Founded in 1976, The People's Music School is Chicago's oldest and largest tuition-free music school, providing high-quality music education to hundreds of students across the city each year. The organization's mission is to transform lives through access to music education, ensuring that all children have the opportunity to develop creatively, academically, and personally through the study of music.

David's election to the Board reflects his dedication to community engagement and service beyond the practice of law. As Managing Partner of Gould & Ratner, he has long championed the importance of investing in initiatives that strengthen the communities in which we live and work.

The firm congratulates David on this appointment and looks forward to the meaningful contributions he will make in support of The People's Music School and its students.
