Gould & Ratner attorneys Robert Chidester and Ammara Khan recently represented our client, Navier, a specialist in the design and construction of cryptocurrency mining facilities, in the negotiation and execution of a strategic agreement with Argo Blockchain. Navier will provide a wide-range of consulting services related to the design and construction of the new Argo facility located in West Texas, including the co-design of a sophisticated electrical infrastructure capable of supporting 200MW of mining.

Navier will also install innovative immersion technology that will increase mining productivity, control heat, and expand the lifespan of installed mining rigs.
