Bio

Michael Hill combines strategic insight with a data-driven approach to guide Gould & Ratner's financial direction and operational efficiency.

As Chief Financial Officer, he works closely with the firm's Management Committee to provide financial analysis, forecasting, and pricing strategies that help deliver maximum value to clients while fostering innovation, efficiency, and collaboration across the firm.

With a unique focus on matter pricing and financial forecasting, Michael analyzes historical matters to identify where the firm has been most efficient and where processes can be improved. This enables attorneys to develop pricing structures that are both competitive and aligned with client expectations, ensuring a balance between exceptional service and strong value.

Michael also oversees Gould & Ratner's billing and accounting team, a key touchpoint for clients, and takes pride in setting a tone of professionalism, responsiveness, and client care. His leadership in this area ensures smooth, transparent processes that support both attorney productivity and client satisfaction.

Since joining the Gould & Ratner as Controller in 2017 and advancing to CFO, Michael has grown alongside the firm, gaining firsthand insight into every phase of its evolution and demonstrating unwavering commitment to its growth and client-focused culture.
